ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

The brand-new dollar's
On the bright home-track,
For the Old Year Dollar
Said it would never come back!

O New Year Dollar,
Be gracious to the poor!
We're praying that you won't forget
The number on our door.—Exchange.

Ten thousand of the newly minted "peace" dollars have been received by the Atlanta Federal reserve bank for distribution among the member banks of the sixth federal reserve district. Probably within a few days these coins will be in general circulation, and we are hoping that some of them will "circulate" in our direction. In several respects the new dollar is an interesting novelty. For one thing, it marks the first change in the dollar design that has been made in the last twenty-five years. Also it is the first American coin to be issued in recognition and as a sort of souvenir of the world war and of the restoration of peace. The ten thousand received in Atlanta are a part of the total issue of 150,000,000 of these silver dollars authorized by a special act of Congress that was signed by president Harding on December 19th. These coins will be legal tender, all right, but our preference will be for the convenient old paper dollar. But money is money, and if a bushel of the new coins should happen to "circulate" our way, why, we won't kick.

John Armstrong Chaloner, of New York City, and Cobham, Va., of "Who's Looney Now" fame, recently spent several days in Atlanta and held a conference with Governor Thomas W. Hardwick relative to the State lunacy laws of Georgia, which were reported as being obsolete in a recent edition of a Macon, Ga., paper. Following the conferences with our Governor, Mr. Chaloner stated that he found the report was erroneous, and that the State lunacy laws are satisfactory in almost every detail. Mr. Chaloner's pet hobby is to improve on the lunacy laws of any State he thinks needs it. We are glad to learn that he stated before leaving this city that "he does not need to fight for better lunacy laws in Georgia, because he finds that the present laws are modern, humane, and justifiable." It is a pity we could not interest his "fighting spirit" on our side in our fight to better conditions at the Georgia School for the Deaf. Maybe we will write him later on, and tell him he can find good use for his surplus dollars down here in helping us elevate the standing of this school, which has sadly deteriorated of late years.

The latest news of the Gibsons, who are touring the South, report them as having stopped in Savannah, Ga., on New Year Day, on their way back North from a visit to Florida. Reports have it that they were royally entertained by the Savannah silents while in that city, a big New Year dinner being tendered them at the Hick's Hotel. In the afternoon they were taken on a sight-seeing tour, which included a visit to "Terrapin Farm" on the Isle of Hope. In the evening a reception was given in their honor at the home of Mr. and Miss Hart. Delicious refreshment was served. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson were taken completely by surprise when, just before refreshments were served, they were presented with a beautiful silver fruit bowl, handsomely engraved with the inscription: "To Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Gibson, January 1, 1922, from the Savannah, Ga., members of Atlanta Division, No. 28. The guests at the Hart reception were: Mr. and Mrs. M. Kiley, Mr. Fred K. Dixon, Miss Viola Well, with the host and hostess, Mr. and Miss Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson departed the next morning on an early train for Columbia, S. C. Lucky Gibsons, thus it goes all along their route. On every side evidence is being manifest of Francis P.'s hold upon the hearts of the deaf of the South. May the balance of his and his good wife's trip be fraught with just such pleasant incidents.

President Cloud of the N. A. D. has appointed Mr. C. J. Daughdrill collector for Alabama for the Atlanta 1923 Convention Fund, and all contributions may be safely sent to his address, 17 Old Shell Road, Mobile, Ala., or handed to him personally. Other states of the South are raising handsome amounts for the Fund. Let the Alabama deaf put their state at the head of the column.—The Messenger. If Mr. Daughdrill gets REALLY BUSY, we have no doubt but that other State associate members will have to start a swift pace to keep up with him. He stands pledged to raise ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS, and we fully expect to see him go "ever the top" long before the two years are up.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Dickerson, after spending the Christmas holidays visiting with Mrs. Dickerson's parents in South Georgia, have returned home bringing Leonard, Jr., who has been with his grandparents for some time past, back home with them, and have entered him in the Atlanta public schools for the Spring term.

Mrs. W. E. Gholdston and son, Billy, left for Jacksonville, Florida, on January 11th, where they will spend the balance of the winter and early Spring with Mrs. Gholdston's mother. Both Gholdston and Billy have been quite sick with the Flu, and the doctors ordered them to go to Florida to recuperate. Mrs. Gholdston will be sadly missed in "Club" circle, as she is one of our most enthusiastic workers.

Miss Margaret Magill and her mother, Mrs. M. E. Magill, spent the Christmas and New Year holidays visiting with relatives and friends at Greenville, S. C. Miss Magill reports having had a most enjoyable visit, and that she did not meet but one or two of the Greenville silents while in that city, the most of them being out of the city visiting friends and relatives at various other points.

The Alabama Messenger, the Florida School Herald, and the Deaf Mississippian, are three of the southern school papers reaching this office which this scribe enjoys receiving, and we wish to arise to remark that they are all good papers, or rather magazines. Every issue of each is filled with "worth while" reading matter. This is not to be marveled at when we take into consideration that such men as Professors McFarlane, Underhill, and Tracy are at the helm. We enjoy reading these papers, and envy these men their opportunities, and we can't see why they do not "get together" and establish another independent newspaper in this section. We are still optimistic enough to believe it would not only survive but would pay, if managed rightly.

Mr. George W. Walker, of Lithuania, Ga., is seriously ill at his home in Lithuania. Mr. Walker has been suffering for the past year or more with Bright's Disease, and at this time Pneumonia has developed, and at last report he was very low, but little hopes held out for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Morris, a Georgia couple, late of McComb, Miss., are expected to return to Georgia some time this month, and we understand that Mr. Morris intends locating in Atlanta.

We again request our friends to send us the news happenings of their respective localities. Our work for the coming N. A. D. Convention is becoming heavier and more time-consuming each day, and we are unable to take time to get out and gather in the news. Yet, when we fail to send in our customary news letter, we forthwith receive complaints from Tom, Dick, and Harry, asking the "why" and the "wherefore" of it. Unless we receive more co-operation in this respect in the future, we will be utterly unable to continue our "booster letters" in these columns, simply for the lack of time to gather in the news. We are spending from five to eight hours each day right here at our desk, and often working far into the night, in an effort to keep up with our N. A. D. convention plans, and to build up our Georgia branch association, collect dues for both the National and State organizations, and helping out in a hundred and one other things looking to the betterment of the conditions of the deaf in this State and elsewhere. Still we are but human, and although the "spirit is willing" the flesh often is weak, and we can't be expected to accomplish impossible things. Let each one become a self-appointed "booster," and co-operate with us in an endeavor to put Georgia and the South on the map, and keeping it there.

AN APPEAL.

We hope the JOURNAL readers will contribute to the very worthy cause set forth in the appeal of Mr. Tse Tien Fu.

Nationality should not play a part in helping our brethren who are deaf. All the world of deaf-mutes are brothers and sisters. Their concern and trouble should be ours. Let us all help in conferring upon one or more deaf-mutes the blessings of education.

Contributions sent to E. A. Hodgson, Editor DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, P. O. Station M, New York City, will be publicly acknowledged, and forwarded promptly.

APPEAL OF THE HANGCHOW PRIVATE SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF.

The school for the Deaf in Hangchow has been running for seven years. There are many students who are anxious to come. But we are in short of fund, we are not able to receive them all. We feel very sorry that we have to turn them away.

Some time ago we received $75.00 through Silent Worker toward the fund of our school. We are indeed grateful. Our students will never forget the kindness of our foreign friends.

At present we are sending out an appeal through DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL in hope that those who are interested in our Deaf School in Hangchow may be willing to contribute some money to help the school in order that we may receive more students. The deaf through the agency of our work may also receive the Gospel. Those who desire to contribute please send their money to Mr. Edwin A. Hodgson.

Sincerely yours,
TSE TIEN FU.

Everybody Welcome.

OREGON—WASHINGTON.

Melvin Harbert does not like spud skins, but since the writer eats spuds with skins on, he generously shows the writer the way to the garbage can full of spud peelings.

Carl James has come back to Vancouver from Port Angeles. He reports Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers as doing well.

Harold Greenwood is back from Port Angeles. He may finish the year at the W. S. D.

Edward Langlois wants to know what a muskmelon is. It is the kind growing in California—tasteless. The muskmelon is the kind growing elsewhere that has the flavor.

Cortland Greenwood and George Bauer, of the Portland Silents Five, are going to Seattle to visit. Jack Bertram calls the team, The Unemployed Five.

Oscar Sanders went to Seattle, Friday. He will try for his old place in the L. and H. office, otherwise he will go to Olympia to work with his brother getting out poles. Henry Rehn, of Oregon Agricultural College, has been visiting his brothers at the W. S. D.

Christmas Eve at the W. S. D. was a success. The School gathered in the chapel. Santa Claus guided his auto over Mount Hood, in full view of the School. After a little talk of joy at being again present, he shook hands with the pupils, and his helpers, the officers, distributed stockings of candy and apples, candy canes and presents to every body. He was Mrs. Meyer.

Henry Rehn says of me: "He is like the fellow that wrote, 'I can not read, nor write.' But it is not an Irish bull, it is the literal truth. Christmas spirit manifested itself today. The Hunters, out of the largeness of their hearts and bounty of their Christmas feast, invited the writer to share their Christmas goose, cooked only as an expert can. Were I less inattentive, I would have been invited to two other Christmas dinners, and would have had my heart's long wish fulfilled. Still they believe I am sharp-eyed, quick at detection and normal hearing."

This year of unemployment and business depression seems to have intensified the Christmas spirit of good will and cheer, for every one seems to have been thought of, including the struggling and starving writer.

At the last minute the Reeves decided to stay at the farm rather than risk the floods in the Puget Sound country. Bertha Seipp came up from Yakima to visit her sister at the School, and her sister, who is girls' matron at the Blind School.

Thos. P. Clarke received a folding table for a Christmas present from his pupils.

A Christmas feast, you know, means a feast under which the table groans and the feasters get on the outside of every thing. That feast at the Hunter's was intellectual, too. W. S. Hunter did you man service for Gallaudet College in relating stories of the numerous attractions and valuable educational features of Washington life, to the pupils who called in the afternoon. Ambition for higher education was encouraged and fixed. Improvement of the mind pays always, and it is permanent.

Louis A. Divine received a Christmas present from his pupils, a Waterman self-filling, non-leaking fountain pen.

Addie Medley received numerous reminders of the esteem of her friends. Dean Horn got a box of handkerchiefs from his pupils in the printing office. The printing outfit for sale in the Woolworth 5-10-15 cent store was not thought big enough.

The Westons have moved into their own home on F Street.

This white Christmas was the first one in thirty years, the length of the weather bureau operation in Portland. There was some ice skating, but the Chinooks from the Japan current have effectually kept the temperature above zero in winter.

The W. S. D. gave movie shows twice or thrice per week and other entertainments for the pupils during the holiday vacation which lasted till January 4th. Only about thirty of the pupils went home for the holidays. The new machine makes the showing of high class productions possible.

P. H. Divine has been spending the holidays with his numerous grand children. The evening of his life is being made joyous like the morning that was.

December 25, 1921.

Pride goes to a fall. Boast is knocked down. T. C. Mueller may be immune to poison oak. He was not the past week. Hat off, sleeves rolled up to elbows, he slashed the brush with cheer at destruction of the joy killing poison oak. Swollen arms have not responded to applications of lye (1), petrolatum, borax, soda, olive oil, tallow, flour and he hopes nature will lay off her just in a few days.

Belle Stout Divine was another. Gleeefully she waved the poison oak and got it in the arm all right. So a brunette has no advantage over a blonde.

The boys of the W. S. D. camped out one day last week. The date is right.

Louis A. Divine has had a bad tussle with a cold in the chest.

Sallee Martin Bradley had a cold. But thoughts of Texas and Arkansas cured her.

Fred Bjorkquest entertained the school in the chapel Saturday.

Greenwood has gone back to Port Angeles. He is the bread winner of the family.

Bnai Brith beat the Portland 38-18.

Orela Littli, now of San Francisco, used to work among the poison oak, ivy and sumac on the Divine place, on the ridge east of town. He was sure immune to the effect of the poison.

The hunters—Willie S. and Ethel Gregory (and the wonderful kid)—celebrated the seventh anniversary of their wedding. W. S. staid at home, tending to duties at home, farm and school, thinking felicitous thoughts, while E. G. and the kid shopped with a lady friend in Portland.

Horace A. and Mary Fogg Weston seem to enjoy Vancouver. The holidays have been nightless to them, invitations to card parties taking up the time. Mrs. Weston has won prizes by the truck load. Horace A. Weston is making his future by unremitting work. He will be assistant manager on the floor at the cannery, and will rise to be foreman next year.

George Siegel Gillis, 59, died at the family home on East Tenth Street, Vancouver, Monday at 2:05 A.M. He had been afflicted for many years, and the final cause was high blood pressure and heart trouble. He was a carpenter and member of several prominent lodges. He left a widow and two boys, Charles and Carl Gillis. He owned considerable real estate, and one street is named after him.

Mr. Griffin has gone back east to Colorado. The moist, warm, coast climate did not suit him.

Alta LaVaser has gone back to her home in Everett, after the seasonal work in the fruit regions at Yakima.

Francis Robinson is back at North Bend, too.

Grace Perringar, she of the auburn hair and perpetual smile, is wasting her charms on the desert air at Oakesdale.

K. E. E. Johnson is working on the Seipp ranch, after a fashion.

The Keys still think Yakima the best in the world—in the United States.

Etta Eslinger received word last week of the death of her father in Tennessee. She had not seen him for fifteen years. Etta has been a valued member of the Louis A. Divine household for over fifteen years. Her cooking has been universally praised, and her care of the children has been admired.

Louis R. and Maybell Martin Divine are going to southern California, eventually making north-west Arkansas. He may take a position as electrical engineer at a new plant near San Bernardino.

Maybelle M. knows cooking. Her dish of sweet potatoes in southern style is unexcelled.

Anthony and Anna Schutz Kautz visited E. C. and Anna Demick Langlois, with the Kautzs' Salem guests, Grace Matthews.

E. C. and Anna Demick Langlois spent New Year's with the Carrolls and Mrs. F. D. Clarke.

W. S. Hunter and the School Engineer, Mr. Hall, witnessed the Wills-Tate fracas in Portland. Both were reputed aspirants for a chance to beat Dempsey out of the heavy weight championship. Wills forced the fighting.

Bertha Seipp returned to Yakima after several days' visit with her sisters and friends in both cities.

Oscar A. Sanders spent several days at the home of his parents near Snohomish.

The Seattle Frats had a big watch party New Year's Eve. About 125 were in attendance.

The Portland Frats saw the old year out and the new year in. About 100 came, saw and went.

There is a rumor a young couple may sell their little place outside of town and move inside. Never was a worse plan proposed. The farm has been a sinecure against the wolf at the gate. A falling market is not the time for a sale, and this year of unemployment does not promise work.

THEO. C. MUELLER.

The Vastness of South America

The vastness of South America is the thing we must understand. I travel about thirty or forty thousand miles each year trying to cover my circuit. It takes me longer to go between the extreme points, from Panama by steamer down the west coast and on through the Straits to Asuncion, Paraguay, than it would take to go from San Francisco to Cairo and back to Glasgow.

You think of Bolivia as a little country. It is as big as Germany, Austria and England. Peru is as large as all the United States from Nova Scotia to the Gulf. Argentina equals all United States west of Omaha. Brazil is a United States with another Texas added. The resources of that vast area are in keeping with the bigness of the continent.

You know, at least vaguely of minerals—gold, silver, tin, copper, vanadium, bismuth, tungsten, the diamond mines of Brazil, and the emerald mines of Columbia. Chile and Bolivia have sold $130,000,000 worth of nitrates every year to fertilize the beet-sugar fields of Germany. The black, rich alluvial soil of Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay, is as good as the best in Illinois and Iowa. Corn grows seventy bushels to the acre; wheat, fifty bushels; alfalfa, six crops a year.

In the latitude south of the equator, as far as Chicago is north of it, we have an Illinois soil and a southern California climate. Such a combination comes as near to an agricultural paradise as there is in this poor world. "What kind of barns do they build in Argentina?" a man asked me. "What do they want barns for?" I replied. "They do not need to keep cattle out of the cold. They do not have to cut and store their hay. It grows twelve months in the year."—Homer C. Stuntz, in the World Outlook.

Alaska Gorgeous Flower Land

Alaska is one of the most gorgeous flower lands of all America. In no other part do wild flowers and grasses grow in such wonderful beauty, profusion and abundance, and pay such tribute to the soil from which they spring and the climate that develops them. North of Chugach Bay the country stretches away in gently rolling hills and meadow land for miles and miles, dotted here and there with groves of spruce and clumps of birch, cottonwood and alder.

As I passed through groves of spruce the blue grouse and the squirrels chattered and scolded, and birds of much the same species found in New England were plentiful. I collected fifty-seven varieties in one season, and this was but a small fraction of the species that are common there.

I saw wild crabapple, elder and sumac. I picked wild raspberries, gooseberries, salmon berries and red currant, all of good size, of splendid flavor and often abundant. I saw humming birds and many song birds, and a great variety of wild life.

Before me were acres and acres of rolling foothills, with a dense growth of foliage and flowering plants, wild pansy, northern yarrow, larkspur, false hellebore, the dainty red columbine almost touching my shoulders; wide reaches of blue forget-me-nots above my knees, and rich grasses and flowers of many other varieties. Beyond were little lakes covered with yellow pond lilies, bordered here and there with the beautiful purple iris; higher up were fields of yellow sunflowers, white and purple daisies, and still higher I have tramped for fully two miles where I could scarcely step without tramping upon violets as large and as luscious in leaf and flower as could be found in any florist's.

On the higher stretches grew in endless array pinks, buttercups, harebells and dozens and dozens of blossoming plants of great beauty and in many colors, among which I photographed carnations in bloom, and on the whole of this great mountain slope grew the finest grasses, wonderfully thick, the best grazing lands in America.—Century.

The Origin of the Red Cross

The red cross as a badge of service for suffering humanity dates back more than three hundred years, writes a correspondent to the Evening Post, and its origin must be of interest at this time when it has expanded as a society into a multitude that ministers to the physical needs of our army and navy here and abroad.

Camillus de Lellis was born in the Kingdom of Naples in 1550. After serving in the Venetian army, he went to the hospital of San Giacomo in Rome with an affection of the leg. There he was so much impressed by the horrors and filth of what was little better than a pesthouse that he resolved to devote his life to suffering humanity, "to care for the plague-stricken and to nurse the sick in their own homes." At thirty two he was ordained a priest, and set about founding a religious order "to serve the sick."

"They shall wear a red cross upon their breasts," said Camillus, "to remind them of the suffering of our Lord Christ. This will give them strength and encouragement." Pope Sixtus V confirmed the congregation in 1586, granting them in the brief a special permission to wear "the Red Cross." This same red cross is the badge of service today, worn by every Catholic religious order that takes care of the sick, in every part of the world. This red cross has been blessed in the leper settlements of Molokai and Madagascar; in the cholera hospitals of India and the pestilence stricken lands of the Far East, as well as on the battlefields of France. In the calendar St. Camillus's Day falls upon the 18th of July, and at his special mass these words are chanted: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Do you know why the streets and roads in China have so many sharp turns? Here's the answer. The devil, a near-sighted Nemois, was won't to pursue his intended victims along the highways. The Chinese took advantage of his satanic shortsightedness by causing their roads to break at abrupt angles, and in the chase the devil would crash into the buttresses along the highway, while the keen Oriental would turn the corner and escape. Now along comes an auto salesman and tells Mr. Chinaman that the speed of the automobile will enable them to distance their ancient enemy if they only will straighten the turns in their roads.

DURING the past several months the newspapers throughout the country have been printing marvelous stories about a deaf-blind girl, named Willetta Huggins, who is a pupil at a school for the blind in Wisconsin. She is a girl of fifteen or sixteen years, and until recently nothing remarkable had been discovered, either in her educational progress or native ability.

However, like a great many of the blind, she had developed an exceptionally keen sense of smell, and her sensitive finger were wonderful in interpreting from the sense of touch.

All this is familiar and accepted in the educational progress of the blind as a matter of average development—that is, it is something to be expected and not to be astonished about. Our meagre knowledge of the blind has been gained entirely from published accounts in the newspapers and Annual Reports of their educational Institutions. Therefore, if we err slightly it does not alter the special case of the young girl in Wisconsin.

It is said that she can distinguish colors by the sense of smell. And while that is extraordinary from the standpoint and experience of normal people, it is quite believable in many instances. The basic coloring matter can be detected by the sense of smell. Probably no two colors have the same odor. In printing inks, a pressman readily perceives the difference between red and yellow and in some blues. We would infer that blindness requires constant use and dependence upon the senses of touch, smell and hearing, just as deafness necessitates dependence upon sight and thereby quickens visual observation, as also a sensitiveness to jarring vibrations, such as the closing of a door or window, dropping of any solid substance on the floor, or the vibrations of a bass or kettle drum. There are very few deaf people who cannot feel a pin drop on a table, if they have their hands upon the table and are being tested in that way.

So we will grant that Willetta Huggins can tell certain colors by smell and can distinguish people by their always varied personal odors. So will other blind persons whose olfactory sense has not been deadened or diminished by the sickness which caused the loss of sight. There is a certain compensation for the loss of one sense, in that it generally makes keener one or more of the remaining senses. Even a physical loss, such as the amputation of an arm or a leg, usually makes the other arm or leg stronger. Investigation has disclosed the fact that Willetta Huggins possesses a degree of hearing, which explains much that was proclaimed as supernatural and was announced by the newspapers as a sixth sense. That there may be a sixth, or even a seventh sense, no one is prepared to deny. But to claim that such extra sense is confined to one person out of millions is unreasonable.

We also read that Willetta Huggins can take a telephone message by placing her fingers on the diaphragm of the receiving instrument. No one is credulous enough to accept that statement, which looks too much like extravagant exploitation, if it be not due to sensationalism of feature writers for the press.

If the public would take the sensible interest towards schools for the blind, or for the deaf, which encourages and appreciates the general progress of pupils struggling under a handicap for that education which makes them independent and self-supporting, greater, better and more widespread benefit would be obtained. It is not by the exceptional pupil, but by the average pupil, that the success of methods of education should be judged.

DENVER.

J. H. Tuskey, of Fort Morgan, was in Denver for a few days recently, while on his way to Fort Collins, Colorado, to spend his vacation. Mr. Tuskey has been a boiler room foreman for the past three years, at the Great Western Sugar Company factory at Fort Morgan. The only deaf man, we know of, who holds such a position. He is totally deaf, too.

J. R. Alford, who was laid off by the Daniel and Fisher's Stores Company, has gone to work as a press feeder at the Banker's Supply Company.

At the recent D. A. C. tournament in Denver, where all kinds of amateur fighters and wrestlers mix it every January, Luther Alford, who is about five feet and eight inches tall, and weighs 194 pounds, entered himself as a heavy-weight, with the idea of ultimately getting one J. Dempsey's goat. Nobody knows beforehand who he will meet, and when Luther climbed into the ring, he found he had to face a veritable giant, who was at least eight inches taller than he, had a reach about that much longer and weighed considerably over 200 pounds. The net result of the slam fest being that Luther couldn't reach his opponent's chin, it being too far up in the air, while the opponent was able to hit him at will, and finally wore him down after two rounds of furious fighting.

Frank A. Lessley will give a lecture to the Silent Circle at St. Mark's Church, on January 29th. A record-crowd is looked for.

T. Y. Northern has been a bit under the weather recently, along with H. E. Grace, C. P. Jones and a few others, whose names we don't know.

A cold wave hit Denver on January 18th, and it was colder than the north pole—at least it felt that way to those who were unable to sit over the hot air registers, or hug the radiators.

J. H. Quinn has finally learned that he must saddle or harness a horse from left side, milk a cow from right side, feed hogs on any side, etc. We predict this gent will ultimately learn to ride a broncho and not pull leather.

The Liberty Club held a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lessley. The ladies of this club condescended to entertain their husbands and sweethearts only. All other males were barred. A royal time was reported by all.

Thos. Collins's mother has gone to Texas to visit with her brother. She will be gone several months.

Mrs. F. S. Reid spent the Christmas holidays in Ft. Collins with relatives.

Dates head—Jan. 29, Lecture by Frank A. Lessley at St. Mark's Church. Feb. 18, Frats Fancy Dress Ball. Feb. 26, Lecture or Reading by T. Y. Northern at St. Mark's Church. March 18, Frats Lecture or Entertainment. April, Frats Banquet? May, date and details later on.

WASHINGTON.

Washington Division, No. 46, N. F. S. D., had the honor of entertaining Grand Secretary and Mrs. F. P. Gibson from January 15th to 17th, 1922. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson arrived in Washington around noon of the 15th, accompanied by a contingent of Frats from the local division that had gone down to Richmond, Va., to take part in the festivities in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson at the Capitol of Old Dominion. At Union Station, the party was met by a reception committee, which escorted Mr. and Mrs. Gibson to their hotel to rest up a bit before taking them to Kendall Green, where Mr. Gibson was booked for a talk before the student body of Gallaudet College that evening. Arriving at the college, the Grand Secretary and his wife were taken in tow by the college boys, headed by Mr. Lauritsen. After being shown around the college, and initiated into the mysteries of college life they were entertained at supper by the Senior Class. Here they had a chance to find out what the far famed "College Grub" really is. After supper, (which by the way, was some spread—we know, because we were there too), all repaired to the Chapel, where after an introduction by Dr. Hall, "Gib" gave a talk to the students that was straight from the shoulder. He told the boys—and girls too—that the N. F. S. D. expected of them after they quit school life for life's school. After the talk, the remainder of the evening was spent socially with faculty and students. Monday, the 16th, was devoted entirely to sightseeing. Prof. Drake and the Smoak Brothers, R. P. and Duncan, tendering the use of their automobiles for this purpose. Monday evening, the Gibsons were the guests of the local division at a social and reception at North East Masonic Temple, the Division's headquarters. After short addresses of welcome by the President of the Division and Brothers Cooper and Stewart, Secretary Gibson was introduced, and he delivered his well-known reading, "The Miracle Man." Light refreshments were served, and the social broke up at about midnight. Tuesday, the 17th, was also given over to sight-seeing, and late that afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson departed for the East, much to the regret of the Washington folks, who would like to have had them remain with us longer. Come again "Gib," old boy, and Mrs. "Gib," too, you'll always find a royal welcome awaiting you when you visit the Capital of the greatest Nation on Earth.

Several of the members of Washington Division, No. 46, N. F. S. D., accepted Richmond Division, No. 83's cordial invitation to attend the reception and banquet in honor of Grand Secretary and Mrs. Gibson. The visitors from Washington were given a most hearty welcome, and all are high in their praise of the entertainment afforded them during their stay in the beautiful Southern City. The fortunate ones were: W. P. Souder, President, and W. E. Marshall, Vice-President of Washington Division; Rev. Brother and Mrs. A. D. Bryant, Brother R. P. Smoak and the Rev. Brother H. J. Pulver. Secretary Gibson reported that he was much pleased with his trip through the South and Southwest, and as a result thereof, several new Divisions are in the making. Most likely, Divisions will soon be installed at Durham and Charlotte, N. C., Columbia, S. C., and perhaps one or two in Texas.

Washington Division has arranged for several entertainments during the fore part of the year. Those scheduled, so far, are a Masquerade Party February 21st; St. Patrick's Day entertainment, March 17th; Smoker (for Frats only), April 8th; Lawn Fete, May 27th, and a steamboat excursion to Marshall Hall, Md., June 17th. Every body kindly remember these dates, or, better still, paste 'em in your hat so that you won't forget to be on hand when the whistle blows.

Calvary Baptist Mission is preparing for the resumption of its monthly socials, which were discontinued during the holiday season. As yet no definite dates have been set for these affairs, but it is probable they will be the last Friday evening of each month. We understand that the Young People's Club is arranging for some sort of an entertainment during February. It's nature and the date thereof will be announced in these columns in the near future. Rev. Bryant now preaches every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

A very interesting program was rendered at the January meeting of the National Literary Society. A Reading "The Sixth Man," by Prof. H. D. Drake of Gallaudet College; an Address on "Disarmament," by Mr. R. P. Smoak, and a declamation "On Flanders Fields," by Mrs. Zimmerman, being the pieces of resistance. The next meeting will be held on the evening of February 15th, when Prof. "Teddy" Hughes of Gallaudet is booked for a lecture.

A jolly crowd of two score or more gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Keyser in Benning, D. C., on the evening of January 9th. The occasion being in honor of Mrs. Keyser's natal day. Mrs. Keyser was presented with many useful and beautiful presents. With the assistance of Mrs. Boswell the relatives of Mrs. Keyser served the guests with a supper. And what a feast it was! The table was loaded down and it fairly groaned with good things to eat. Such a feast has not been seen in these parts since the good old days before ex-Kaiser Bill undertook to lick the world and got licked himself.

During the past few weeks the Basket Ball team of the Capital Silent Athletic Club has been covering itself with glory. So far, it has played an even dozen games, and has won all but three of them. In time, and with a little more practice, we expect to see the team fight its way to the championship of the District of Columbia. The Club has four games booked for the week of January 22d, and looks forward to bagging all of them. If we err not, the line-up of the team is as follows: Center, Ferguson; Guards Scott and W. Edington; Forwards Capt. Miller and Johnson.

Several of our athletic young ladies gathered at the home of Miss Jennie Jones, which is at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Smoak, the other evening, to talk over the prospects of organizing a ladies' Basket Ball team. We have not, as yet, been advised of the result of this conference, but opine that ere long we will see a flock of red-middled silk-bloomered Amazons adorning the basket ball courts of the Capital. There are several old bald-heads in this town that can be depended upon to be in the front row at the ring-side (or whatever you call it) and lead in the "rooting" whenever these Venuses are playing.

Not finding Little Old Noo, Yaw all that it is cracked up to be, Miss Jennie Jones returned to Washington during the holidays, and resumed her old position as an accountant at Woodward and Lothrop's department store. Miss Ruth Leitch is holding down a like position at the same store.

Mrs. S. B. Alley gave a party, some time ago, in honor of Miss Annette Pettit, of New Orleans, La. Miss Pettit was a former pupil at the Kendall School, and was back for a month's visit, renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. While here she stopped at the H. S. Edington home.

Another delightful party was given by Miss Julia Johnson, at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Smoak. The parlors were tastefully decorated for the occasion, the favors were appropriate, and the refreshments very appetizing.

Miss Marie Brandenburg, of Terre Haute, Ind., was a recent visitor, at the Capital. While here she was a guest at the Ferd. Harrison home. After leaving Washington she visited at several other points in the East before returning to her home in Indiana.

Mr. John A. Roach, the Bean Brummel of Philadelphia, was in town for a few days during the holidays. He was a guest at the Wallace Edington home. Mr. Roach is popular in Washington and is always given a warm welcome when he comes.

Mesdames W. E. Marshall and H. S. Edington and Miss H. Fish were Washington's representatives at the wedding of Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Merrill's daughter in Philadelphia some time ago. We would all have liked to have been present at that event, and wished God speed to the little girl we knew so well and her husband, but for one reason or another we were prevented from going.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon B. Alley spent the Holidays with Mr. Alley's relatives in Williamson, W. Va., and Roanoke, Va. They returned to Washington in time to be present at the Installation ceremonies of the local Frat Division on January 4th.

Mr. George Raweston resigned his position as draftsman with the Navy Department at the end of the year and went to New York City. We understand that he has secured a lucrative position with a drafting firm in the Big Town. Mr. Raweston represented Washington Division, No. 46, at the Installation of Manhattan Division, No. 87, January 18th.

In our last letter, we failed to note the death of the mother of Mrs. William Brookmire, who departed this life at an advanced age last August. Mr. and Mrs. Brookmire were present at the funeral, which was held at Reading, Pa. The couple spent the Christmas holidays in Philadelphia, Pa., with their children and grandchildren.

The K K K., a club composed of a baker's dozen of our maids and matrons, meets bi monthly to play "500" is still going full blast. The last meeting was at the home of Mrs. F. Harrison, January 19th. The next meeting will find Miss Julia Johnson playing the role of hostess, and the stunt will be pulled off on the evening of Ground-hog Day.

The Episcopal Mission for the Deaf now holds its services in the Parish House of the famous old St. John's Church. Rev. H. J. Pulver preaches on the 1st and 3d Sundays while the lay-reader, Mr. Orman, a Gallaudet student, officiates on the other Sundays of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mockabee, brother-in-law and sister of Mesdames Souder and Alley, and their small son, left for Los Angeles, California, January 15th, where they will make their future home. Two other sisters and a brother of Mrs. Souder and Mrs. Alley now reside in the Golden State. Wonder which of this family will be the next to bid Washington good-bye.

We are informed that W. E. Marshall of "Yankee Doodle" fame, and known hereabouts as "Fatty Arbuckle," is to coach the Gallaudet track team this spring. It may be remembered that W. E. was an athlete of note in the old days before Old Father Time depleted the thatch on his pate and blessed him with an over supply of embon point. Go to it, old boy, we're with you! Just go out and show those youngsters what a Yankee Doodle can do!

"Occasional" is laying aside his avocations one by one, and in time he hopes to be able to grace these columns more frequently than he has been able to do for some time. Here's wishing our readers a prosperous year.

PHILADELPHIA.

News items for this column should be sent to James S. Reider, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The following note, clipped from the Nesogay column of the Philadelphia Record of recent date, contains matter of historical interest concerning the meeting of the Alumni Association in December 30th, 1921:—

"The Alumni Association of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Mount Airy, has erected a brass tablet, two by three feet, in the corridor just outside the office of Superintendent Crouter, at the main entrance to Wissinoming Hall. The handsomely engraved tablet rests on a blue marble base, noted on which are the previous locations of the school, the names of all the presidents and officers, directors, superintendents and principals, from the founding of the school to 1920, giving the years during which they served the institution. The tablet was presented to commemorate the founding of the institution, and was unveiled by Miss Hazel Fahnestock, hearing daughter of A. M. Fahnestock (seventh generation), who was one of the first 11 pupils who entered the school in 1820. Miss Emily Sterk from the Staunton, Va., School for the Deaf, and who graduated from the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, in the class of 1915, presented the tablet to the institution. It was accepted in behalf of the institution by Dr. A. L. E. Crouter, the long-time superintendent. The election of officers of the Alumni Association to serve for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, D. Ellis Lit; first vice-president, A. M. Fahnestock; second vice-president, Hugh J. Cusack; secretary, William K. Clayton, re-elected, as was also Miss Mamie I. Hess, treasurer.

The Philadelphia Local Branch, P. S. A. D., gave a "variety entertainment" at All Souls' Guild Hall on Saturday evening, January 21st. It was largely attended and was both enjoyable and profitable.

An entertainment will be given Thursday evening in the Academy of Music, for the benefit of the Archbishop Ryan Memorial Institute for Deaf-Mutes, No. 3509 Spring Garden Street. The benefit will consist of the presentation of "The Daughter of the Regiment," by the Carlisle Operatic Society, which has recently acquired considerable prominence by its recitals.

The Ryan Memorial Institute, as it is popularly known, is devoted to the education and maintenance of deaf and dumb children, and was established in memory of the late Archbishop Ryan, who had often expressed the desire to erect a school for deaf-mutes, but who could not do so during his administration. After his death the Catholic organization undertook the work of establishing the institute as a memorial under the direction of Archbishop Prendergast, and a temporary home was established at No. 1803 Vine Street in 1914, in charge of the Sisters of St. Joseph. The latter began at once to prepare themselves for their work in a professional way, and attended special courses for deaf-mutes in Boston and Buffalo.

Through the co-operation of the Holy Name Societies, funds were raised for the purchase of a permanent home, and last summer the beautiful old Kelly mansion on Spring Garden Street was purchased. The cost of the property was far in excess of the amount collected for the purpose, and the Ladies' Auxiliary attached to the Institute is endeavoring to raise the balance, and a substantial amount is expected to be realized from the coming performance.

The new home of the institute has been altered and enlarged for its new purpose, and was formally blessed by Cardinal Dougherty a few weeks ago. There are now nearly 70 pupils in the school, most of whom are boarders, and they are given board and tuition free. In charge of the school is Sister Carmelia. —Philadelphia Record, January 22, 1922.

Rev. C. O. Dantzer held his monthly service at the Home in Doylestown on Sunday, 22d of January.

All Souls' Social Club will give a social at the Parish House on Saturday evening, February 4th. All will be welcome. No admission fee. Refreshments on sale.

James W. Love, a cousin of our James L. Patterson, participated in the gorgeous New Year's parade, on January 2d. His club, known as Kleins' New Year Shooters, won a prize of $750, for the best fancy clown.

Mr. Patterson is now mourning the death of his uncle, William G. Love, who died recently, after a long and severe illness, of gangrene of the right foot. He feels the loss very keenly and has the sympathy of his many friends here.

William Foster has the proud record of being employed in the large Victor Talking Machine factory in Camden, N. J., for twenty-five years.

Andrew Leitch, of Baltimore, Md., was a visitor at All Souls' on Sunday, January 8th.

Clarence J. Settles, M.A., a teacher of the Mt. Airy School, resigned to accept the Superintendency of the Arizona School for the Deaf, Mr. Griffin having resigned to take another position. The day before Mr. Settles started for his southwestern post he was privately married to Miss Pike, one of the teachers. They left together for Arizona last Thursday morning, January 19th. Mr. Settles came originally from Missouri, we understand, a few years before the World War. He resigned to serve his State in the war, and after it was over returning to Mt. Airy. He is a promising member of the profession and we have no doubt that Mt. Airy is sorry to have lost him. His friends here wish him good luck in his new post.

Senior Pons, our visitor from Porto Rico, who had intended to leave Philadelphia early in the new year, has been forced to postpone his departure, owing to nasal treatment he is taking here.

Mrs. Nancy Moore entertained the members of the Cleric Literary Association by a varied talk last Thursday evening, January 19th.

Mr. Reider had another "bout" with Jack Cold towards the end of last week.

There was to have been a meeting of All Souls' Social Club last Tuesday evening, January 17th, but hardly a quorum turned up at the meeting room; hence it was again postponed.

W. Scott B. Miller, of Christiana, Pa., was in the city during the week end of last week, shopping with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Wilson.

Mr. Jacob A. Lupolt, of Coatesville, Pa., was a visitor at All Souls' on the 22d.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Robb had their family increased by a boy very recently—exact day not known by us.

Mr. William and Miss Susan McKinney called on the writer on Sunday evening, to offer him birthday congratulations.

Friday The Thirteenth

On Friday, the Thirteenth, Mrs. Alfred K. Waugh, of Seattle, was struck by an auto and knocked down, but was not hurt. It was also Friday the Thirteenth for the autoist, as a policeman promptly grabbed him.

ONLY ONE SHOVEL

Many delightful villagers appear in Miss Rosalind Richard's A Northern Countryside; there are people amusing and lovable, eccentric and pathetic. Old Elphaleet Marston, hero of one brief anecdote, stands out among them all as the best exemplification of the principles on which real business success is founded.

Elphaleet, who built and owned the shovel factory, made it his study to produce the best-wearing and the sound shovel that could be made. In later life his son tried to induce him to go about through the country, look up his customers, and do what he could to increase trade. The son was very emphatic about it. It was what everyone did, the only way to keep up to date and advertise the business, and Elphaleet must not become moss-grown. The old man shook his head, but after much discussion consented to start off, although he was not really persuaded of the wisdom of the suggestion.

He went to a big wholesale dealer in Chicago, but did not mention his name—merely said he was there to talk shovels.

"Don't mention shovel to me," said the dealer. "There's just one that's worth having, just one that's honest, and that's the one that I'm handling. There it is," he said, producing it. "Look at it! That's the only shovel that's made in this country; made by a man named Marston, at Marston Plains, State of—"

Elphaleet chuckled and went home.

LOS ANGELES.

The Merry Christmas season brought much joy to Southern California, as a drenching rain had broken a drought of sixty days, terminating in an unusually heavy downpour for the past week. It was said to be the worst in thirty-two years, because the city was thoroughly soaked, all streets being flooded and all street cars and trains being greatly demoralized and wires and dwellings badly damaged. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather the city was full of bright yuletide thrills during the Christmas week.

On the evening of the 17th ult. there was a very nice Christmas entertainment given by the Sunny-side Club to the members only and their families in its prettily decorated hall, besides a Christmas tree being brightly lighted by colored electric lights. The appearance of Mr. Campbell, disguised as Santa Claus, delighted the members, especially the children, who swarmed around him and patted him. He made a little speech by the Christmas tree and then gave a bag of mixed candies and nuts, an orange and an apple, to each of those present and absent also. The event was the best affair the Club ever had, much praise being given to Chairman Burson and his Committee.

Having recently rejoined his wife, who has been here for the past year, Mr. Emil Weller has decided to give up his Chicago home and become a permanent Los Angeles citizen. It was his first time here. Mr. R. Handley has been confined to his home by illness for some time, but by this time is on the road to recovery.

We really regret to see our good and pleasant friend, Mr. Oscar Saunders go, but we expect him to be with us again in the near future. We wonder if he is homesick for his Seattle home.

The Matty Silents have been idle for the past three weeks, owing to Marshall Foch's visit and the rain. They are to clash with Watts next Sunday afternoon at Watts.

Mr. W. Rother has earned handsome profit by the sale of his big apartment. However, he and his brother-in-law, Mr. W. Phelps, are the owners of a building with its offices and stores on the corner of Santa Monica Boulevard and Vermont Avenue.

In addition to the colony of the silent auto owners, Mr. J. Singleton, who is quite a skillful auto mechanic himself, made a new auto out of unused autos and proudly called it "Oakland."

Miss Edna Vandegrift, the assistant matron of the California School for the Deaf, is in town renewing her old acquaintances after a few years' absence. She expects to spend her Christmas vacation until it is time for her to return to the Institution.

Several of the pupils are back home from the Berkeley School on their Christmas vacation. They look much brighter and bigger and look as happy as can be at the Clubs. They are to return to their studies in a couple of weeks.

Mr. L. Fisk has gone up north as far as San Francisco, hoping to discover good fortune. The city is hard on him, as he has secured frequent lay-offs.

Mr. W. Phelps narrowly escaped what might have been a terrible death last week. He had the right of way when crossing the intersection, but an auto truck loaded with bath-tubs came in his way, but quickly turned and turned over, throwing its driver under the truck. He was immediately taken to the Receiving Hospital, only to find a broken leg, besides some slight bruises. Mr. Phelps' auto was not at all damaged, except for the side part. On investigation he was in no way to blame for the accident.

There was a recent meeting at Cafe Saddle Rock to organize a new Athletic Club, resulting in newly appointed officers for the Club as follows: President, Clements; Vice-President, Buhmer, and Treasurer. The Club has started on its way to a pretentious career. Watch it grow.

On the evening of the 31st ult., the A. C. D. had a grand masquerade ball in the hall of Los Angeles Silent Club to watch the old year go and the new year come. It was the first affair the Club had held since it has been newly organized. The hall was filled to its capacity, in spite of the bad weather. Several costly prizes were awarded to winners in the way of their costumes. The proceeds, amounting to over three hundred dollars, are to help the new Club start out successfully. The Sunnyside Club generally had its hall closed dark, and helped the Athletic Club join in the fun of watching the New Year come. The event was really a very successful one for the new Athletic Club of the Deaf, much credit being given to Chairman Mathels and his Committee.

The writer made an error in the statement of Mr. William J. Japes of Detroit being re-married. He should have said that his brother got married.

A few words of information in a letter postal card is sufficient. We will not be lost.

DEAF-MUTES' UNION LEAGUE.

At the Annual Meeting of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, on Thursday evening, January 19th, 1922, there was a large attendance present. First the regular monthly business was transacted, then the officers and committees gave their annual reports, which showed that the year of 1921 was the most successful year in the League's career. It has now enrolled 195 members, with several applicants awaiting confirmation by the Board.

The installation of the officers elected in December then followed. They are Anthony Capelle, President; Joseph C. Sturtz, First Vice-President; Hyman Gordon, Second Vice-President; Charles Golden, Secretary; Emil Basch, Treasurer; Frederick Meinken, Judson Pierson Radcliffe and A. A. Cohn, Board of Governors.

The President appointed the following Standing Committees: Entertainment, M. Monaclessor (Chairman), Samuel Lowenherz, Louis Uhlberg, Board of Trustees, Samuel Frankheim (Chairman), Judson Pierson Radcliffe, Charles Schatzkin, Finance Committee, Henry Peters (Chairman), Nathan Dobsavage, Charles Sussman.

This year the Athletic Committee is composed of young blood, and much is expected of them to infuse life in various sports. They are Joseph Wozel (Chairman), Abraham Barr and Leo S. Beizon.

The Committee of Arrangements having charge of the big affair to be held at the 22d Regiment Armory, on Saturday evening, January 28th, desires to inform all those holding tickets, and also to those intending to be present, that the basketball game between the Fanwood and Lexington Athletic Associations, which is for the Intercity Championship of Greater New York, will be started promptly at 8:30, and as it will be a hotly contested game from start to finish, a hearing referee of wide knowledge of the game has been engaged.

The game between the Silent Stars of Philadelphia, Pa., and the Deaf-Mutes' Union League also will be worth seeing. These two teams have met before, but the make-up of both has been strengthened, and this too, will interest everybody.

The committee also desire to say that they have arranged for the comfort of all who attend. There is room for 15,000, so we hope all the deaf and their friends will attend.

The 87th link in the great chain of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, the greatest organization "of, for and by the Deaf" in existence, was formally "soldered on" on Wednesday evening, January 11th, in the Grand Ball Room of Savigny Hall, Lenox Avenue and 121st Street, amid a gathering that fairly jammed its way in to witness the Public Installation of MANHATTAN DIVISION NO. 87 and its newly elected officers. To quote Bro. Editor Hodgson's remarks in his speech, "the greatest living frat of them all," referring to Grand Secretary Gibson was present, acted as honorary master of ceremonies and presented the Division charter to its President, Bro. Marcus L. Kenner. The charter comprises the names of 41 members of Brooklyn Division No. 23, and as all were already initiated into the mysteries of the order, the machinery of the new Division promises to run as no new Division ran before, resolved to canvass the Borough of every non-Frat it possibly can. The installation was carried out by Bro. Max M. Lubin, representing the Grand Division as Organizer of the new Division. The following officers, who were elected to fulfill their duties for the ensuing year, were installed as follows: Grand Vice-President-Pach installing President Kenner; President Hitchcock of No. 23 installing Vice President Harry J. Golberg; Grand Secretary Gibson installing Secretary Victor R. Anderson; Bro. O. K. Price, Secretary of Baltimore Division, installing Treasurer J. P. Radcliffe; Past President Friedwald of No. 23 installing Director Samuel Goldstein. Organizer Lubin installed the remaining officers, Sergeant B. Elkin; Senior Trustee Charles C. McManis; Junior Trustee C. Melis and F. W. Meinken. The patriarch of the Division is Bro. Fred C. Berger. Representing No. 23, Bro. Hitchcock presented Grand Secretary Gibson and Grand Vice-President Pach with regalia of their office. Grand V. P. Pach was also presented with a diamond set, handsomely engraved ring, the gift of the Eastern Delegates to the Atlanta Convention and a few of his intimate friends. It was presented by Past President Max M. Lubin of No. 23, who now represents the Grand Division in his capacity as Organizer of the Division. Bro. Lubin told how the returning del-

DETROIT.

The Detroit Division, No. 2, N. F. S. D., introduced five candidates to the fraternal govt of the Division, last Saturday evening, January 14th, after which the hall was filled with chairs, and Frats and non-Frats, ladies and gentlemen, were invited to a lecture by John G. Berry, who used as his subject the origin and advancement of the N. F. S. D. The occasion was the 20th anniversary of the founding of the organization, and Peter N. Henders, Frat No. 1, gave a graphic description of the early struggles of the order, after which Asa Stutsman and R. N. Jones addressed the meeting, setting forth the value of joining young, and getting in on the ground floor.

Rev. Jacobs also spoke, and said he has been paying dues for twenty years, and has never felt any regrets.

President Heymansson and his able assistants are to be congratulated upon the great success of the meeting.

"Ice cream and cake were passed to all present, as a 'treat' from the Detroit Division, and everybody went home satisfied and happy.

Don't fail to turn out to the next N. A. D. meeting, Saturday evening, January 28th. A good time is promised to all who come.

The Sunday evening Bible service at St. John's Chapel, under the leadership of R. V. Jones, is becoming very popular, judging from the increased attendance. Mr. Jones' subject Sunday, January 1st, was "Atonement." His address was eloquent, and he showed the audience in graphic and forcible way how atonement under law was typical of Christ's atonement for us.

Mr. Jones again addressed the members on Sunday, January 15th on "Justification." Mrs. E. V. Jones rendered "Love of Jesus All Divine."

Miss Anna Takacs, of Toledo, is a new addition to Detroit's bery of young and charming lassies. She is employed at the Edison Company as a pastry cook.

Miss Fanny Seagraves, formerly of Indiana, but resident of Detroit for several years, surprised her friends by announcing that she is now Mrs. Albert Higgins. She was married last October. Her husband is a chef in one of the leading Detroit hotels.

The papers have announced the death of Luther L. Wright, Supt. of the Michigan School for the Deaf. He succumbed to heart failure. He succeeded the Late Supt. Clark. We will leave future details of his death to the Flint Cor., as Supt. Wright was not very well known to the older graduates of the Michigan School.

Mrs. Delbert Johnson's aged father met with what might prove a fatal accident recently. He slipped and fell, hurting himself seriously, being in the neighborhood of 85 years. Mrs. Johnson, however, hopes for the best. He was formerly a leading cigar manufacturer in Flint, Mich.

Frank Neubert, who has been bed-ridden all summer with an ailment that has baffled the doctors, has upon the suggestion of the Ford Motor Company been sent to Ann Arbor, Mich., to be treated at the U. of M. Hospital. Henry Ford sent the wife a check for ten dollars weekly until the amount totaled $250.00. The Company then called a halt upon this generosity, and advised Mrs. Neubert to rent her home and work.

If I am correctly informed, the Ford Motor Company will give her work at its plant at six dollars a day. Nothing to compare with this genuine generosity of Our Henry's."

The misfortune and hard luck that has confronted the Neuberts would have discouraged a less brave heart than Mrs. Neubert. Injured by an auto accident and her son just out of the hospital, convalescing with a broken leg, she with undaunted courage has faced all this, and has come out on top, and a job at Ford's will put her up on her feet again. Her only regret is that she will have to give up her cozy little home by renting it to strangers, so as to keep up payments on it.

The month of January will pass by as one of the months to be regretted. The reason is that the Rev. C. W. Charles will not hold his regular monthly service, as was his custom. However, his good work goes on, as in his absence Mr. Peter McNulty conducts the morning Bible Class, and Mr. R. V. Jones the evening service.

Mrs. Harry Brown made a flying (?) visit to Port Huron, Mich. While there she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kresin.

The Ford Motor Company on January 9th started its machinery again, after a month close down for inventory. Indications point toward the fact that the gold mine that Detroit thought it had mined, turn out to be like the Akron gold mine.

The Surety Cigar Company, where Mrs. Francis McMahon has been employed for seven years, closed down December 16th, and will not open till February 1st. Mrs. McMahon believes in making hay while the sun shines, so secured a job at the American Cigar Company at smaller wages.

The deaf employees of the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company are not so fortunate as the Highland Park plant. Many of them are still "waiting for that letter (from the company) that never came."

Mr. A. R. Schneider, for ten years an employee of the Fisher Body Company, of Detroit, has been transferred by that Company to its Cleveland, O., plant. His duties will be that of inspector. Mr. Schneider is a prominent member of the N. A. D., D. A. D., and one of the active workers of the Ephratha Mission for the Deaf. His wife and four little ones will follow later.

Peter McNulty, Jr., only son of Mr. and Mrs. "Pete" McNulty, has been one of Detroit's finest for two years. He is married, and with his "Dad" is renting an elegant apartment in an exclusive neighborhood on a 50-50 plan.

Robert Rollins, a product of Pennsylvania, has been working as a welder at one of the Fisher Body plants for seven years. He does not take an active part in deaf affairs like his charming little wife. She is the retiring president of the local N. A. D.

The local N. A. D. will hold its first meeting of the year at the D. A. D. Club rooms on January 28th. A good time is to be anticipated, as the new officers intend to make things hum during the coming year. Every one is invited and welcome to attend. Make this an epidemic and spread it among your friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sadofsky are the proud owners of a Ford Limousine. Mr. Sadofsky is employed in one of Detroit's leading bakeries at good wages. The depression in labor does not worry him, as bread is one of the necessities of life.

Mrs. C. C. Colby absence in Washington, D. C., is missed by many of her friends here. She remembered all of them Christmas by very pretty and useful Christmas presents. They all wish her a good time and a long life, and hope the day is not long before she will return.

Mrs. G. M. Nelson, known to JOURNAL readers as "Pansy," is the leading light and mainstay of the Ladies' Guild. Without her it would go to the rocks. The Guild should be congratulated in having such a valuable member.

AKRON, O.

Walter Krohngold's father, M. Krohngold, who lives at 530 West Market Street, recently purchased a 55-acre farm with buildings near Steele's Corners. Walter intends to move there to help his father in April and during the summer.

John Fitzgerald, after working in Sebring, was called back last week to work at Goodyear. He is a member of the Goodyear Silents foot ball team.

The annual business meeting of the local fraternal society was held at its headquarters Saturday evening. It was voted to secure funds for furnishing a room in the Men's Cottage of the Ohio Home for the aged deaf. This is evidence of the Akron generosity.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erickson entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Unsworth, who will leave shortly for Washington, D. C., at dinner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Unsworth have lived for some time with their son, Frank L. Unsworth, and family, at 1600 Preston Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ansil Haggard, nee Elizabeth Clarke, are the happy parents of a baby boy, born in December.

Rev. C. W. Charles conducted a good service in St. Paul's Parish House Sunday morning, when the Holy Communion was given.

H. H. Kohn received last week sad news from Chicago, announcing the death of Henry White, who, coming from Arizona, worked at Goodyear in 1920.

The wedding of Miss Jennie M. Emerling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Emerling, to Harry C. White, took place at the home of the latter's parents recently. The young couple will live at 17 Emerling Avenue temporarily.

The many friends of John Walker, of Cincinnati, were pleased to see him back at Goodyear last week.

Mrs. Lewis Snyder received the sad news announcing the death of her brother, Henry Thomas, at Indianapolis, Ind., on January 4th.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, of East Akron Terrace, is under quarantine for diphtheria. Their youngest child, Addie, is the victim.

Powell Wilson, of Trenton, N. J., visited his brother, Harvey Wilson, and family, Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Wilson departed Thursday night for Santa Fe, N. M., to take a position as "hotpot operator" at the School for the deaf.

Mrs. Jacob Emerling has been sick with a bad cold at her home.

Mrs. J. A. Steele, of 1567 Pilgrim pl., announced recently the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marguerite Gillespie, to Mr. Russell Moore, as previously mentioned in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL. The nuptials took place in East Akron Wednesday, Jan. 18th. The couple will live on Crosby Street, where they recently rented a house. Neither the bride or groom are mutes. Mr. Moore is employed as an instructor of the mutes at Good-year. Their many friends wish them happiness.

Heyden Bingham is confined to his home with an injured foot, resulting from an accident while at work recently. Heyden may not be able to return to work for several weeks.

The annual meeting of the Silent Co-operative Grocery Company was held at the grocery store room, Saturday evening, January 14th. President William Pfunder presided at the business session. Mr. Lindsell, new attorney for the corporation, addressed the stockholders. R-sel Moore interpreting for the deaf. The Company was reorganized to perfect the organization for the new year. H. Wilson, secretary-treasurer, read the report of the financial condition for the fiscal year.

The directors elected were W. W. Yeargan, J. H. Phillips, Geo. W. Prigge, Ralph Thomas, J. C. Dowell, H. Wilson, and C. Ensworth.

AKRONITE.

PORTLAND, OREGON

The friends of Mrs. Dora Campbell Craven gave her a surprise birthday party December 18th. The guests provided the dinner, the main course consisting of numerous chickens. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Delaney, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Spieler, Mr. and Mrs. Divine, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Linde, Mr. and Mrs. Kautz, Mrs. Gromachev, Mr. Horn, and Mr. Bjornquist.

The installation of new officers of the Portland Division of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf took place on the third floor of the Alisky Building, the evening of December 31st. Fred Delonoy is now President; Buddy Spieler, Vice President; Jack Bertram, Secretary; and Ora Fay, Treasurer. A reception followed the installation, and the rest of the Old Year was passed in games, dancing, and refreshments.

The Blue-Bird Club held their first meeting this year at Mrs. Gilbert's home in Vancouver, Washington, the afternoon of January 4th. In spite of rain, snow, and cold weather, many of the members were present. Miss Lindgren, the new supervisor of girls at the Washington State School for the Deaf, was admitted to membership at this meeting.

Wednesday evening, January 4th, Messrs. Meacham and Trainor, claiming to be representatives of an eastern firm wishing to sell shares to the deaf, entertained the Portland deaf at the Imperial Hotel with an interesting lecture on co-operation and investment. After the talk several deaf-mutes bought some of the company's shares. Some concern has been felt among the local deaf as to the integrity of the visitors' mission, a few saying it looked like a wild-cat scheme, or some sort of a fraud. But as far as it is known at present, there is nothing wrong with their business. A few days after coming to Portland they left for San Francisco to continue their lecture tour.

The Blue-Bird Club has planned an entertainment for January 21st. Each member is to invite her husband or an escort to their social at the Alisky Building. Mrs. Linde and Mrs. Hunter are on the committee to provide eats and games, which the rest of the members hope will be sufficiently interesting to keep the invited husbands and escorts busy. Should the mates of the party sneak away to a corner by themselves, the Club will know their efforts to entertain the men has been a complete failure.

Mrs. Giffen, who is now staying with Mrs. Ora Fay, may leave Portland soon to join her husband in Wyoming. Her many friends in Portland will be sorry to see her go, but all wish her and Mr. Giffen the best of luck.

All the deaf-mutes in Portland are now interested in the coming mask ball. This year it will be held on the third floor of the Alisky Building, February 18th. Prizes will be given for the most unique costumes, and many are now beginning to plan their suits.

Mrs. Guile L. Deligilio is spending her spare time trying to analyze the different parts of a Ford Sedan. So far she isn't quite sure what makes the engine go, but hopes to acquire greater knowledge when the weather becomes more settled than it has been since Christmas. The reason of taking up this new study on top of her regular work, is due to being a third owner of a brand new Ford Sedan, the other two thirds being owned by her mother and brother.

Miss Overcash, who recently worked in a Tacoma hospital, is now making her home in Portland. G. L. D.

Cadet Samuel Meyer has been transferred from the Printing Office to the Carpenter Shop. Cadet Lieutenant Thomas Whalen, our star top off of the Fanwood Seniors, received a letter from his friend, Major James McVernon, who is now the military instructor in the Kansas Institute. He stated in his letter that he had a most enjoyable time in hunting rabbits.

The dancing contest, by the Dancing Classes, which was to be held on January 20th, has been cancelled because of the epidemic of scarlet fever in this city.

Last Saturday, January 14th, Cadet Sergeant Abe Jaffro spent a day skating at the Halsey Palace in Brooklyn.

The time flies so rapidly that soon Fanwood Seniors will play a basketball game against the Lexington quintet—on January 28th.

Cadet Clarence Peterson is no more a pupil here. He went to the country for the benefit of his health Monday, the 16th.

Ye Scribes of this column advise you all to go to the 22d Regiment Armory to witness the basketball match between the quintets of the Fanwood and the Lexington Avenue School, which is to be on January 28th.

On the evening of January 18th, Fanwood Athletic Association held its regular meeting in the Boys' Study Room. The business of this meeting was about the Athletic Carnival and Field Meet, which will be held on May 30th.

Mr. Edward Malloy, a product of Fanwood, was a visitor to his Alma Mater on last Thursday, January 19th. He is now employed at the New York Butcher Dressing Co.

Miss Anna Kaplan was selected a new duckling of the Adrastian Society on Monday, the 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Gibson, of Chicago, were visitors here with other friends, namely, Rev. R. C. Fortune and his son, R. C. Fortune, of Durham, N. C.; Roland D. Thompson, of Danville, Va.; Orlando K. Price, of Baltimore, Md.; Ovide Feoteau, of Revere, Mass.; Jeremiah Ryan, of Lynn, Mass. They all visited different departments of this institution, accompanied by Dr. Thomas F. Fox and Mr. Edwin A. Hodgson. Mr. F. P. Gibson is the Grand Secretary of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, with offices at Chicago, Ill.

The Provisional Company gave an exhibition of the silent drill to the visitors. After that Mr. Gibson made a short address, commending the Cadets for their skill in the manual of arms and marching. All the visitors inspected the room of the Protean Society and were introduced to the Cadet Officers.

Dr. Leale made a call at this school Friday, the 20th. He is Chairman of the Committee of Instruction appointed by the Board of Directors. Some pupils had a great time in skating at the Halsey Palace in Brooklyn and the Starlight Park in Bronx last Saturday evening, the 21st.

On Sunday afternoon, January 22d, Dr. Thomas F. Fox discoursed before the pupils about "Manners," in the chapel.

Cadet 1st Sergeant Lester Cahill, a member of the Protean Society, is proud of his brother, whom our President, Warren G. Harding, selected as a postal telegraph boy. He had two trips, from Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia. His brother is going to try to meet the President, whom he has not yet seen.

Mute is Under Arrest

George W. Prigge, 63, a deaf-mute living at 1830 Shaw Avenue, was arraigned in Police Judge O'Neil's court this morning to a charge of obtaining money by false pretense preferred by Warren W. Yeargan, also a mute. According to Yeargan, Prigge claimed he had ten lots in Martin Heights, which he was selling to mutes and Yeargan bought one for $395 without receiving a deed. Priggs pleaded not guilty, and said he could prove he was agent for a real estate company which owned the lots. The case was continued by Prosecutor Frank H. Harvey.—Akron Beacon Journal, Jan. 14th.

COMING EVENTS:

Whist Party, February 28th—By Ladies Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The deaf of the Calvary Baptist Church celebrated Christmas festival on the evening of December 28th, at the hall, under the management of Mrs. Bryant and Mr. Souder. The program was in charge of Rogers Scott. A series of short stories from Christ's birth up to twelve years of age, were told in succession by Mr. Blood, Mrs. Hannan, M. Galloway and R. Johnston. The Misses Nanny recited Hymns, and Little Viola Hurwitz signed "Three Wise Men."

Dr. Anderson and Rev. Abernethy (hearing) of the church spoke, and praised Rev. and Mrs. Bryant for their love and zealous work among the deaf and the church. The deaf mission received an annual Christmas gift—a check for twenty dollars from the church to defray the Christmas festival expenses.

When the exercises were over the whole happy deaf went downstairs for a festival, which consisted of potato salad, rolls, cake, ice cream and hot coffee. While they were enjoying eating, some heartless thief sneaked into the chapel and took away three perfectly good overcoats. The victims were S. W. Cranston, son of Mrs. Cranston, matron at the Gallaudet College and a son in law of Rev. and Mrs. Bryant, M. Galloway, and J. J. Marty, a student of Gallaudet College. At this writing the detectives have located many overcoats, which were found at different pawn shops. The victims escorted by the detectives called on the various shops to claim their lost overcoats, but of no avail.

The following item appeared in the Washington Post of December 28th:

THIEF ROBS THREE DEAF-MUTES

With the knowledge that his victims were deaf and dumb, the thief who entered Calvary Baptist Church last night, while a Christmas show held forth, was reasonably sure of making a clean getaway. When he went, he took with him three overcoats. Outside it was cold, the mercury flitting with zero. Inside the folk who gathered with the deaf and dumb from many parts of Washington as their guests, heard propounded the doctrine of peace on earth and good will to men.

And then came the awakening. There was some one in the world all wrong. Who he was, where he came from, where he went to, no one knew.

Stephen W. Cranston, of 322 East Capitol Street, Martin Galloway, 643 A Street Southeast, and John J. Martin, of Gallaudet College, were the victims. The coats were valued at $40 each.

St. Barnabas Mission to the Deaf, of which Rev. Pulver is the new pastor, was held at the Parish House of St. John's Church on 16th and H. Streets Sunday morning, New Year's Day, with an interesting congregation. The old friends met and greeted each other. "How do you do," "Happy New Year!" and their faces were new to the writer, though she enjoyed the new acquaintances. They were old residents of this city and had not seen each other for a good long time. Rev. Pulver's sermon was on "Three Wise Men."

Rev. Pulver is a pleasant young man with a willing heart for the Christian cause. He also has Parishioners in Virginia and West Virginia, the second and fourth Sundays of each month. During his absence from Washington, Mr. Orman will hold services. The Parish hall is constructed of red brick, of Old English style. It is large and roomy, consists of a hall and a resting room, and a balcony upstairs which is used as a kitchenette. There will be meetings, socials, etc., evenings during the week and the Guild will soon be organized and under way. Every one is cordially welcome to the Church to hear the word of God. Time—11 o'clock, Sunday mornings.

On the evening of January 4th, the new officers of the Washington Division, N. F. S. D., were installed at a public ceremonial at the Northeast Masonic Temple. It was in a dignified fraternal manner, which was striking and appreciated by the public who attended. Mr. Courtney, who was the director, escorted the new officers to the official stations, and the old officers wished good luck and a prosperous 1922 for their brother officers. The new officers took their oaths before the president at a table that was placed in the center of the hall and draped with an American flag. As soon as Mr. Ferguson was escorted to the Secretary's chair, which was placed at the right of the presidential place, he produced his fountain-pen and placed it over his right ear and looked wise.

Mr. Souder was escorted to the presidential chair, and he made a glad but ardent address, and he agreeably received noisy applause from the audience. After which a little girl, Viola Hurwitz, recited in signs "Three Wise Men." Mrs. Hannan was the next on the program. She told of the birth of the N. F. S. D. from memory, and she also told of the surprise and astonishment that the ladies' proposals for the membership were always rejected at the frat conventions, though the ladies were the most wonderful wives of the frats. She was congratulated for her witty speech, while the frat husbands looked on in embarrassment. Messrs. Bryant, Stewart, Cooper, Pulver and Edington, spoke their parts well in different ways. Then old-fashioned sweet cider and doughnuts were served. More than two hundred attended and enjoyed the fraternal atmosphere.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keyser, with the able assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boswell, entertained thirty-two of their friends in honor of Mrs. Keyser's birthday at the Keyser residence, Benning Road, out in the country, on Monday evening, January 9th. The evening was pleasantly spent playing different games. At 11:30 a bountiful and delicious luncheon was served. After luncheon Rev. Mr. Bryant spoke in behalf of the guests to congratulate Mrs. Keyser on her birthday and praised Mr. and Mrs. Keyser for their hospitality and bountiful "eats," which the guests enjoyed immensely.

Mrs. Keyser was remembered with many useful gifts and money. The Keyser's are charming people and own their beautiful home of eleven rooms. They have two children, a daughter and a son. Those who enjoyed the party were: Rev. and Mrs. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Souder, Mr. and Mrs. Edington, Mr. and Mrs. Boswell, Mr. and Mrs. Vernier, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell, Mr. and Mrs. Keyser, Mesdames Parker, Edington, Harrison, Colby, Alley, Marshall and Eskin, Misses Colby, Johnson, Keyser, Lowell and Nanny sisters, Messrs. Keyser, Johnson, Boswell, Harrison, and Lowell.

A card club, composed of twelve ladies, gave a watch night party on New Year's Eve, at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Edington, at 426—11th St., N. E. The twelve ladies and their guests, numbering thirty-eight, were present to bid the old year out and the new year in. Many odd games were indulged in. The affair was charge of Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Harrison. Brick ice-cream and cake and home-made candies were served. Among the guests from out of town were Miss Jones of New York, Mr. Roach of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Vernier, Mrs. Colby and Miss Colby.

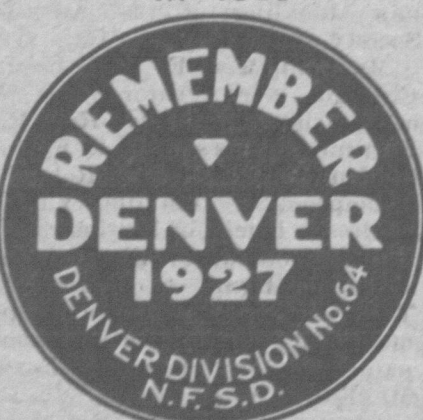

The guests remained a few minutes after the clock struck twelve and then they greeted each other "Happy New Year." They all departed for their respective homes with their fortune told from the Chi-Chi, Chinese daily fortune teller. It is claimed to be the oldest known method of fortune telling in the world.

Miss Maude Seaton, who has been a Normal at the Gallaudet College, was called home to Romney, West Virginia, before Christmas, to assume duty as a substitute teacher at the School for the Deaf. It also reported that her mother, Mrs. Bessie Wayman Seaton, has been ill. We hope by this time she has recovered.

Harry Turner, twenty-nine years old, a product of Oklahoma and Kendall Schools, died December 26th, and was buried with a fraternal ceremony the following Monday. Rev. Mr. Bryant officiated and Dr. Hall interpreted for the hearing relatives.

TO MEET IN DENVER

Historical.
Denver is the youngest of the nation's principal cities. Its site was a part of the Louisiana purchase made from France in 1803. It was named after General W. Denver, who was the first Federal Governor of the Western region, known as Kansas Territory, which then included the area of the State of Colorado. A little more than 62 years ago a one-room cabin was the only white man's habitation on the site of Denver, and the only one between Fort Laramie and Bent's Fort on the Arkansas River, Colorado, of which Denver is the capital, now has a population of 940,000.
